

ONLINE TRAINING

RiskCheck Online Training offers a full service solution for environmental and health and safety training needs. We offer a wide selection of Canadian health and safety courses, and most are available in English and French.

A Process That Works For You

Every employer has a legal duty to inform employees of the appropriate hazards in the workplace, and to provide appropriate training. RiskCheck Online Training provides an efficient and cost-effective way to train employees on a wide range of health and safety topics. Online access allows employees to work through modules at their convenience, regardless of location, schedule or time zone. Upon enrolling, users receive unique login codes and access to suites containing the selected courses. Upon successful completion of a course, users receive a certificate that can easily be stored electronically or printed for paper files or framing. The RiskCheck courses are available for one year, allowing users to revisit all course information at any time as a refresher.

Customized to Suit Your Needs

Successful training makes employees aware of specific risks in their workplace. Online training courses can easily be modified to suit individual needs, such as highlighting province-specific legislation, industry-specific risks, and/or company-specific policies and procedures. By using online training, employers are assured that all employees are receiving the same, consistent information. We are also able to incorporate interactive elements into courses to ensure that employees understand the material they are given, such as quizzes and prompts for users to supply site-specific information. Most of our courses are offered in English and French.

Reporting Functions to Keep You Informed

RiskCheck Online Training is also an electronic database for storing employee training records. Reports of employee training progress, test scores and completion certificates are available with our platform. We are also able to set reminders for upcoming certifications or renewals.
